The Library Association gratefully acknowledges the recent gift of one hundred dollars from Mr. William J. Upson. This is but one of many benefactions for which it is indebted to him. The price of books has nearly doubled in the last few years. The library must now pay for the electric lighting, while under the former company was furnished without charge. The cost of supplies of all kinds is much larger than formerly. The circulation has happily, greatly increased. So in spite of the careful management and self-sacrificing efforts of the librarians, and of Judge Hastings, who for many years has freely and cheerfully done yeoman service, the annual running costs are nearly double the appropriation from the town. The Association is carefully husbanding its resources toward the new building which crowded conditions will soon make absolutely imperative. Consequently this latest gift from Mr. Upson gives a timely and much appreciated lift.

GOULD TRACKMEN WIN COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Last Saturday the Gould Academy trackmen won the Oxford County championship from a field of seven competing schools. This marks the second consecutive season that the local track team has won the county honors.

The superiority of the well balanced Gould outfit is shown by the fact that they placed in eleven of the fourteen events of the meet, while Rumford, their nearest rival, placed in but seven.

Gould received the high point trophy cup for winning the meet, and also the junior high relay trophy. The latter cup was won by Norris Brown, Trafton Bartlett, Joseph Holt, and Leslie Learned. These four freshmen ran a brilliant race to lead their Rumford and Mexico rivals to the tape by a generous ten yard margin.

Al Chesbro, last year's star, was high point man for Gould with first places in both the high jump and pole vault, and third place in the javelin and shot put. His total added twelve points to the Gould score and was a weighty factor in bringing his team through to victory.

Ed Johnson, another veteran of last year's squad, collected eight points in the 440 yd. dash and the broad jump. His win in the quarter mile was the outstanding thriller of the day. Johnson also ran anchor in the relay.

Captain George Parsons capped the mile in mastery fashion. He showed his stamina by maintaining a comfortable lead from start to finish, and at no time in the race was he dangerously pressed by an opponent. Parsons also ran the relay.

John Twaddle sprung the surprise of the meet with a second in the 100 yd. dash. Lakin capped a second place in the high jump. Headd a third in the discus, and Wilson Bartlett third place in the mile run. Don Hamlin and Franklin Chapman made up the relay quartet that decided the championship for Gould.

The schools scored as follows: Gould 36; Rumford 35; South Paris 22½; Mexico 20; Andover 3; Canton 1; Norway 0.

100 yard dash, won by Parsons, (SR); second, Twaddle, (Gould); third, Swallow, (Paris). Time 27 seconds.

440 yard dash, won by Johnson, (Gould); second, McGregor, (Rumford); third, tie between Decester, (Rumford) and Cummings, (Paris). Time 37.4 seconds.

880 yard run, won by Barry of Rumford; second, Goodridge, (Mexico); third, O'Neil, (Rumford). Time 2:13 1-5.

1 mile run, won by Parsons, (Gould); second, Swett, (Andover); third, Bartlett, (Gould). Time 5:02.

Senior mile relay, won by South Paris; second, Gould; third, Mexico. Time 3:57.

Shot put, won by Giroux, (Rumford); second, Plawlock, (Rumford); third, Chesbro, (Gould). Distance, 40 ft. 2 in.

Discus, won by Goodwin, (Mexico); second, Wagnis, (Rumford); third, Heald, (Gould). Distance 101 ft. 3 1-2 in.

Hammer, won by Giroux, (Rumford); second, Goodwin, (Mexico); third, Wagnis, (Rumford). Distance 104 ft. 6 in.

Broad jump, won by Parsons, (Paris); second, Johnson, (Gould); third, Goodwin, (Mexico). Distance 19 ft. 7 in.

High jump, won by Chesbro, (Gould); third, Stanley, (Mexico); Height, 5 ft. 2 1-2 in.

Pole vault, won by Chesbro, (Gould); second, Barrett, (Mexico); third, tie between Plawlock of Rumford and Martin of Paris. Height 9 ft. 4 1-2 in.

Javelin, won by Chapitus, (Rumford); second, Plawlock, (Rumford); third, Chesbro, (Gould). Distance, 144 ft. 6 in.

Junior high relay won by Gould, second, Rumford; third, Mexico.

The last meet of the season will be this Saturday, May 31, at the Bates College Interscholastics. At this meet Gould hopes to repeat their victory of last season when they won the high point trophy.

Coach Fossett is taking the following trackmen on the Bates trip: D. Hamlin; J. Twaddle; E. Johnson; F. Chapman; W. Bartlett; A. Chesbro; B. Lakin; D. Heald; G. Parsons; J. McKown; J. Alger; N. Brown; L. Learned; H. Dickey; J. Stevens; T. Bartlett; and Manager Laurence Bartlett.

Cops Just Plain Dumb

By M. L. DEVRIES
(Copyright.)

OFFICER KEARNEY had a personal, intense dislike for radios, which he called raddios and which, he said, were keeping a good man down. He explained it all to the pale clerk who led him to the rear of the shop. "It don't give us little guys a chance. I been needin' a citation to get my promotion, but there ain't never anything doing. You see these guys tearin' around; they got a raddio and the chief at headquarters sends 'em the word when there's a hold-up or a murder and it's all over with by the time an ordinary guy gets his dogs movin'."

"Well, there's no law makin' you buy one if you don't like 'em," the clerk stated.
"The h—! there ain't—Mrs. Lester Kearney."

"Oh!" said the clerk. "I've heard of such cases."

"I can't afford it but she says you aren't in it any more unless you've got one," Officer Kearney stated. "So trot 'em out."

They moved toward the rear of the store. Suddenly the clerk stopped.
"Who sent you here?"

"Why," the officer responded, "my friend Tiny did—Tiny Burke. Said you and he was sholekicks. He gave me the address, 802 Whiting street, and said you'd treat me right."

"Ah, yes—good old Tiny."

They stopped before one of the machines lined against the wall, and the clerk adjusted the dial. When sound came he assumed a pose of rapt attention.

It developed that the item was market quotations on hogs, wheat and corn from WICOG.

"Seems like a powerful machine. Is there a price?"

"Er—one hundred fifty," came glibly.

"Cheap enough for a trusty. How come?"

The clerk winked. "To our friends you understand. And anybody who's a friend of Tiny is a friend of mine. All right?"

"O. K. Any music in the air?"

The clerk shifted the dial. There was a gruff rumble and the machine sent forth a low growl like lions in pain.

"Trot number eight—go to 683 Bonbury."

The clerk hesitated only an instant. "That ain't music, I'm sure of that. I was tryin' to get—"

Officer Kearney put out a restraining hand. He seemed puzzled. "I'd know that voice in a wind storm, and I'll eat my badge for a plate lunch if it ain't Sergeant Carey."

"Yeah? They sent out reports from the police station to the patrol. It's a good machine what'll pick that up. It's b— for these here burglers, son. The cops are right on their necks."

"That's what I was sayin'," said Kearney. "I don't give us plain hoofers a chance."

The voice droned on, sending out the startling bits and crime incidents which a large city breeds. "A woman jumped from the fifteenth story of the Liberty hotel. See Moran. He reported it. Number 12 get this. Radio store at 802 Whiting held up. Look for Jackie Nook. He loves radios. He ported by the garage next door. Own er tied up in the rear room but he got to a window. He's layin' low un til you get there."

The store was very quiet, except for the droning of the broadcaster's voice. For a moment both men looked startled. Then the clerk grinned.
"Holy smoke! That's this dummy somebody pulled a boner. They're dumb I tell you. Them cops are just plain dumb. We'll have the whole force on our necks in a minute."

Officer Kearney mused.
"Just a minute, son—come back here a minute."

Monarch's Neat Rebutte to Overzealous Priest

King Leopold of Belgium—merry old soul—had a caustic wit. On one occasion when he was at his chateau at Ostend, the parish priest approached him and asked for a private word with him. When the two were alone, the priest began to read Leopold II a long sermon:

"Sire, I am profoundly grieved," he said. "There is a rumor, I am sorry to say, that your majesty's private life is not marked by the austerity suited to the lofty and difficult task which God has laid upon the monarchs of this earth. Remember, sire, that it behooves kings to set an example to their subjects."

For 20 minutes the king listened patiently to the utterances of the good man, until the priest desisted from want of breath, relates Evelyn Graham (in his authorized biography of King Albert, nephew of Leopold).

"What a funny thing, Monsieur le Curé," said the king, fixing him with a cold look and smiling slightly. "Do you know, people have told me exactly the same thing about you!"

Only I refused to believe it.—Kansas City Times.

Little Profit Found in Search for Sensation

A time comes to most of us when life means just a little more than playing around. We must not think for a second that there should be no play. That would be unwise. But what is foolish is the attitude that brings us to the belief that, to gain happiness—for that is, after all, what we are trying to get—we must indulge in all sorts and all kinds of fun and frolic.

Sometimes it extends beyond that; we seek every kind of sensation we possibly can in our pursuit of gaiety. Whenever a new idea is mooted we go after it with renewed vigor, in the hope that the boredom of life—as some ill-fated minds regard it—will be changed to a really good time.

We only manage to secure the maximum of contentment by accepting the debts and credits—taking the former at their real valuations, and making the utmost of the credits.—Exchange.

Chateau of Knowledge

The speculative mind of man is like a colossal chateau set on a hill. It is surrounded by perpetual darkness. The chateau has countless windows facing in all directions. There is, at first, but one light, a flickering glimmer. In one small window level with the ground.

Agnes pass. Another window slowly lights up. Gradually, as time flows away, a thousand windows in the chateau flame with light. Tower windows begin to glimmer. Finally, the whole chateau is a blaze of light. For behind each window a mind labors in a small dark room slung like a human skull to create a light of its own.

From the tower windows the lights gash the dark for a great way. But the most powerful light from the largest window is merely an inch trying to eat the infinite.—The Thinker.

First Uses for Sideboard

The dining room sideboard once served a different purpose from that of holding the family silver or glass. The sideboard, known first as a credence table, held all the dishes that were to be served at a dinner. An underlifter of the house then, in the presence of the guests, itated each dish of food on the credence table to make sure there was no poison that might be fatal to the guests. But gradually, as people became less vicious and the desire to poison one's enemy, or friend, became less customary, the credence was utilized for the display of silver and table service.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Causes of "Blood Rain"

There are many cases of so-called miraculous showers in which the substances found on the ground did not actually fall from aloft. Thus some alleged rains of blood are due to the deposit of red fluid ejected by certain species of leptoptera emerging simultaneously in large numbers from their cocoons, and others to the rapid multiplication in rain pools of algae and rotifers containing red coloring matter. The well-known red snow of polar regions results from the presence of similar organisms.

"Dragon's Blood" in the Arts

The "Dragon's Blood" of commerce is a red gum made from the ripe fruit of palm trees growing in Siam and the Dutch East Indies. It is used in the pharmacy and finds its way into the arts as a means of coloring varnishes and also for use in photo-engraving. It is secured from the nut by a process of steaming and crushing. The product is sent to Penang and Singapore and thence it is shipped half way around the world to points in Europe and America.

Road Builders of the Past

Nobody knows who built the first road but remains have been found of a highway laid out by Cheops, builder of the great pyramid in Egypt, says the National Geographic Magazine. Babylon had three great highways, and the first laying of tolls in the history of highways took place on one of these Babylonian routes. The Carthaginians were the most scientific road-builders of ancient times, but the details of their construction have been lost.

REMODEL HOME FOR G. O. P. CLUB

Historic Mansion in Wash- ington Will Be Made Headquarters.

Washington.—When women Republican leaders come to Washington this summer they can make themselves at home in a nice new Republican clubhouse.

The National Republican club has just bought a $50,000 piece of property half a dozen blocks from the White House, which it will remodel
and occupy as a club.

This is a handsome residence property, built of white brick and looking out on Scott circle at Sixteenth street.
It is within half a dozen blocks of Secretary Mellon's apartment and Speaker Longworth's house, in the opposite direction from the White House.
It is between forty and fifty years old,
was built as the home of a wealthy Washingtonian of the past generation,
and since has had various vicissitudes.

Used by Japanese.

For the last several years Japanese embroidered panels have hung on its walls, Japanese screens have decorated its spacious rooms, and Japanese governments have been transacted there. During that period it has been occupied as the chancery of the Japanese embassy in Washington,
which means the office end of the ambassador's headquarters. Now the Japanese have bought property of their own and are to build a fine new embassy near the new British embassy
on Massachusetts avenue.

Before the Japanese occupied the building, World war veterans lived there. A beautiful American woman who had married a foreign prince started a string of service men's clubs
during the war and acquired this house as her Washington branch.
Trouble developed, the clubs broke up,
and the beautiful princess lost her Washington headquarters.

To Be Remodeled.

Inside the rooms are large and high ceilinged, with reception or drawing rooms on the main floor.

The Republicans will remodel the interior, tearing out partitions so there will be one very large room where receptions or party meetings can be held.
The Republican committee of the District of Columbia and the Republican national and state and congressional committees will be particularly at home there.

Representatives Edith Nourse Rogers
(Rep., Mass.) and Ruth Baker
Pratt (Rep., N. Y.), and Mrs. Alvin T.
Hart, former vice chairman of the Republican national committee, are the only women on its board of governors.

The Democrats have no similar organizations here, but the Women's National Democratic club owns and occupies a finer and larger house about four blocks distant.

First Floridian Fought

Tigers, Ate Muskrats

Sarasota, Fla. Science slowly is filling in the details of the picture of what is believed to be the first American, a primitive man whose diet consisted chiefly of round tail muskrats and the marrow of bones. Evidence found by the Holmes-Moore expedition here indicates the man lived approximately 25,000 years ago and ranged the banks of Florida's freshwater creeks prepared to spear fish,
or battle the sabretoothed tiger.

J. E. Moore and Prof. W. W. Holmes, scientists, further believe they have found the great pasture lands of the mammoth and mastodon, which apparently occupied Florida in the Pleistocene age.

Moore has discovered the skull
and a large portion of the remains of the first American on a small palm and oak hummock, thirteen miles from here. He was a meat eater, particularly fond of muskrat and other, and occasionally devouring turtles and snakes. Bone marrow, according to the scientists, was the greatest delicacy. In the vicinity of the skull they found bones which had been broken open and the marrow sucked out.

Moore pictures the first American
as a courageous individual who hunted the mammoth and mastodon, and occasionally killed them.

since his boyhood and her financial adviser until her death. Relatives have served notice that they will contest.

Too Fat to Vote; Sticks in Machine

Geneva, N. Y.—Voting machines are no good for fat men,
Geneva police recently found out.
In a recent election a machine was used. The machine, not at all popular, was used by a man weighing 400 pounds. He got in, but couldn't get out until police wrecked the machine.
The voting was continued next day by the ballot system.

Remark That Silenced Silly Women at Opera

Who says that American men are lacking in cultural instincts and confine their conversation to the three prosals—business, sports and probi-tion? During intermission at a Philadelphia orchestra concert the other night this reporter, seeking enlightenment, joined a group of veteran musicians.

He heard this:
"So I turned to those two
chattering women behind me and said,
'Ladies, you are barbarians.' And they didn't talk again that night while the program was on."

"Well, you made out better than I did once at the Metropolitan. I guess
I was too polite. I said: 'Pardon me, ladies, but the music has begun.' They talked more and faster than ever."

"Now, you don't know how. I certainly squelched two girls sitting beside me at a German opera one night.
I said: 'Excuse me, girls, but Wagner didn't write any parts in this opera
for female voices in the gallery.'"

"Quee, you know how to do it, all right."—Philadelphia Record.

Awful Threat Brought "Half-Croon" in Hurry

Grim was the reply of the Scottish graverdigger when a certain al-girdly farmer was haggling about the charge for his wife's interment. I well remember the graverdigger recounting the incident. I had asked him if he ever had had any difficulty in getting payment for his rather trying work.

"Only yince," he said. "It was when Ewan Swan buried his wife. Ye mind her with the guld gaun tongue. Efter
I had raised my kep, as a signal to the mourners to gang, Ewan stayed ahlnt.
Says he to me, 'What will I be awn ye, John?' 'Seven and six,' says I. 'It's ower much,' says he, 'in licht sandy soll like that,' and he hands me a croon. 'Sandy soll or hard clay, it's seven and six,' says I, 'and doon with another half-croon or up she comes!'
And I niver seen a half-croon come sne smert out o' a farmer's pouch."— Scots Observer.

What a Penny Can Do

I heard a wise man say: "Give crowns and pounds and guineas, but not your heart away." Young men, however, are apt to be careless of their hearts, mindful of their pounds and guineas, but rarely, very rarely, mindful of their pennies.
A penny, they know, will tell them their weight, will purchase exactly one stick of chewing gum. Some may even know that a penny will light a 40-watt bulb for three and a half hours. But pennies are generally a nuisance. You get them when you buy a newspaper.
You can never tip with them.

But this a penny can do, so soon it less: one penny can move a ton of coal one mile, almost, by rail. It can move a ton of coal five miles, which, incidentally, is 200 feet.—Fortune, the Business Magazine.

The Last Scrivener

"I am the last public scrivener in Paris." A serious little man was speaking to a representative of the Paris Solr. "Things have changed," he continued, "and when the buildings about here are torn down I shall have to move. There are not so many letters to write now, for even the little malls have learned to pencil their

Ceylon Great Trading Port

Spices, plumage, pearls and rare woods, the export commodities which brought fame to Ceylon, have been superseded by tea, rubber and coconut products as the island's leading exports. More than one-fourth of the world's commercial crop of tea is produced there. In the two chief coconut products, copra and coconut oil, Cey-lon's contribution forms a tenth of the aggregate world exports. One-tenth of the total rubber supply is produced there.

Radium Disintegration

Atoms of radium are distinguished from atoms of non-radioactive substances by the property of spontaneous disintegration, which, in the case of radium, consists in the ejection of an alpha-particle, which is a small piece of the central core or nucleus of the radium atom. This process transforms the radium atom into another chemical element. During disintegration atoms of radium also emit a radiation similar to X-rays.

Graphic Outlines of History

THE ERIE CANAL IN 1830
As the country expanded westward between the years 1820-30
better means of communication were needed; there was a growing demand for new roads and canals.
The first canal, the Erie, was finished in 1826 and the effects were great and immediate. Soon a great movement of population to the west was stimulated and New York became the most populated state in the Union.

Personal supervision of all details

all unnecessary responsibilities

The next case was that of Charles W. Walker of Canton vs. John Orino of Rumford. The suit is brought to recover the value of a cow struck and killed by a truck belonging to Orino. A. E. Stearns for Walker; George A. Hutchins for Orino. A verdict was returned for the plaintiff of $225. The case will go to the Supreme Court.

Two cases following this that were tried together were Mary Langevin and Frank Langevin, both of South Andover vs. Ethel R. McAllister of Andover. These are the result of a collision on the 13th of last November, when the Langevins were returning home from Andover. Bellevue for the plaintiff in each case; R. T. Parker and A. E. Stearns for defense.

The case of Miss Elinore Packard vs. Oscar T. Howard and Alfred J. Bolduc for personal injuries in an automobile collision started Monday and continued through Wednesday. Dr. Abbott of Portland, who told of the operation and treatment of it, was one of the witnesses to be heard Monday.

This case is a suit for personal damages resulting from an auto collision, last summer. Miss Packard was with Howard on the road from Skowhegan to Lakewood and Bolduc was ahead of them and as the plaintiff claims, without a tail-light, when suddenly the Howard car ran into the rear of the Bolduc car, throwing Miss Packard forward so that her head struck the windshield and her knee came in contact with the choke. This case was originally started in the February term at South Paris and was for a sum of $3,000 but at that time the injury to the knee became worse and the case was continued to the May term with the amount of damages increased to $5,000. During this time according to evidence to be introduced, Miss Packard has undergone a very painful operation on her knee at the hospital and is still on crutches and under treatment. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff, Miss Packard, of $5,441.70.

Thursday morning the case of Dennis McDonald vs. Nilsen & Wagner was begun. Albert Bellevue for plaintiff, George Hutchins for defendant. This though not a collision case was an automobile accident case. A verdict for defendant was returned.

When Will Your Day's Work Be Done?

When you have a sufficient amount of securities, or cash drawing a reasonable rate of interest, to guarantee against any embarrassment from want, you can then retire.

If anyone was always able to earn, and assured of a steady and substantial job, and guaranteed against sickness, accident, etc., spending everything would not then be criticized.

However, no such arrangements can be made.

Save and Be Sure.

Memorial Day

Most all of the states celebrate on May 30th.

SOME of the Southern states have various dates, occurring as early as April.

But whether Northern or Southern the spirit is one and the same—a desire not to keep alive old differences.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
L. A. Edwards, Pastor

9:30 Church School. Miss Ida Packard, Superintendent.

10:45 Morning Worship. Subject of sermon by the pastor, "The Golden Rule and the Rule of Gold."

Are you a Church Man? Do you believe in the Gospel of Christ? Well what would happen if tomorrow you started out to follow the simple teaching of the Golden Rule? If you refused to sell anything that you, under the same conditions as the customer happened to be in would not buy?

If you refused to say anything about anybody that you would not be willing that they should say about you, even though it might be true?

If you should be ever alert seeking the good of your fellow men, even as you would like to have men seek your good?

Do we believe in the Apostles Creed? Do we believe in Prayer? Do we believe in the Church? Do we believe in Heaven?

Would your neighbors, wife, husband, children, teachers have any more faith in Christianity, if we professed less and practiced more?

Jesus did all that a Divine Saviour could do for the Salvation of the world; but the world is not saved yet. The Kingdom tarries, and for what?

The 25th Chapter of Matt. is not all of the Gospel, but to leave it out of our religion is to invite Spiritual poverty.

The Ladies' Club will meet with Mrs. Vandenberg on Thursday afternoon.
